NEWS RELEASE

Regarding Certain Media Reports and Other Information Concerning Our Copper Foil Business

Recently, particularly in Asia, there have been various media reports and market rumors regarding our copper foil business, including claims that competition is intensifying due to the entry of Korean company and that our copper foil will no longer be used as a result of the adoption of glass substrates. Some of these reports and rumors contain inaccurate information. As previously communicated, there has been no material change in the business environment or the medium- to long-term growth outlook for our copper foil business.

We continue to see medium- to long-term growth potential for VSP™, our electro-deposited copper foil for high-frequency circuit boards, and MicroThin™, our ultra-thin copper foil, and have also begun considering additional investment to further expand production capacity. Going forward, we will continue to further strengthen our core advantages and strive to enhance corporate value over the medium to long term.

Mitsui Kinzoku will contribute to the realization of a sustainable society by implementing our vision for 2030, “Building new businesses — and the future — with our material intelligence,” based on our purpose, “We promote the well-being of the world through a spirit of exploration and diverse technologies.”
